Commissary Funds for Prisoners

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Penitentiary Board approved a motion Wednesday calling for commissary funds to be used only for inmates and not for expenditures that should be borne by the state.

The board then decided to ask for the opinion of the attorney general on whether the prison welfare fund belongs to inmates or the prison.

The board wants to use the fund to give each discharged inmate $20 and buy him any needed clothing.

The fund has been used for other purposes, Thomas Murton, assistant prison superintendent, said. He cited one instance where an engine had been bought for a truck that had been wrecked in an escape.

Another instance, Murton said, was that $1,800 had been used to buy athletic equipment "that never hit the farm."

Murton also criticized a Pine Bluff accountant who he said had a auditing contract with the penitentiary for 28 years. "He just reconciles and balances," Murton said.

A FRIGHTENED CRY goes up from a little Vietnamese girl, who can't understand that Airman Second Class David Prieto, 31, of San Antonio, Tex., volunteered his time to inoculate her against disease, not to hurt her. The scene was at a 102-member children's orphanage in Bien Hoa, South Vietnam.

Conspiracy Indictment in Probe

By BILL CRIDER
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Jim Garrison's controversial Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe has spawned its second and perjury indictment.

Layton Patrick Martens, 24, a college student who once lived with David W. Ferrie, was indicted Wednesday by the Orleans Parish (County) grand jury on a charge he lied under oath.

"It's an attempt by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison to discredit any and all witnesses who did not bolster the Garrison investigation," said Martens in Lafayette, La.

"I took a lie detector test in Garrison's office last December and it was positive in my favor."

Arrangement was made for Martens to surrender at the sheriff's office today, with bond set at $2,500.

The indictment was issued about three hours after Clay L. Shaw, 54, a retired New Orleans executive, pleaded innocent at arraignment in Criminal District Court on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Garrison accused Shaw of meeting with Lee Harvey Oswald and Ferrie in Ferrie's apartment here in September 1963, to talk over an assassination attempt. Shaw said he never knew Oswald or Ferrie. Both men are dead.

Kennedy was killed in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission named Oswald, a former New Orleans resident, as the assassin.

Martens' indictment was based on his testimony of March 29 while being questioned before the grand jury by Garrison in regard to the burglary of an explosives storage bunker near Houma, La.

The burglary entered the assassination probe when Garrison filed conspiracy to burglary charges against Gordon Novel, 29, and Sergio Aracacha Smith, both wanted for questioning in the probe.

The relationship of the burglary to the alleged conspiracy was never spelled out.

Boobytrap Mailed From U. N. Postoffice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Someone within the United Nations may have mailed the boobytrapped book that exploded in Cuban charge d'affaires Nicolas Rodriguez Astiazaran's hand Monday, a U.N. spokesman said Tuesday night.

The spokesman said the package was mailed from one of the two U.N. postoffices with a gummed address label available only to U.N. employees and correspondents. It bore a U.N. stamp and cancellation.

Published by the U.N.'s legal department, the book can be bought in stores for $10 and has been distributed free to U.N. delegations.

Rodriguez was burned superficially when he opened the package. He blamed anti-Castro Cubans whom he said were aided by the United States.

down right in front of the station. The individual motioned me to follow him."

Young followed the man's car to a clear gravel area. The man asked for the bag.

"He had his left hand free but his right hand was in his jacket. I didn't know if he was armed, I gave him the bag. Then I came back home."

"The next call was about 4 a.m. Kenny was on the phone and said he had been drugged with three sleeping pills and was in a man's apartment in Santa Monica. Then a man came to the phone and said, 'I have your son here; he's fine, but he's tired.'"

Young did not disclose how many abductors his son described. He said Kenneth would return on Monday to his fifth grade classes at Beverly Hills elementary school.

Young, who heads an organization with assets of $423.5 million, was sleeping with his wife Arline when Kenneth disappeared. A maid and their other children—a 3-year-old girl and boys 13 and 6—were sleeping in bedrooms farther away from the second floor door than Kenneth's.

Legislature Was Hard Working

By ROBERT L. SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—One of the descriptions most frequently applied to the 1967 General Assembly by longtime legislators was that it was the "hardest working" session they had attended.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller called it progressive and constructive.

House Speaker Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock said it was not the worst legislature "in recent times" despite "much of our public image."

Majority Leader Marion Crank of Foreman said the session had been very little different from others.

Many legislators, however, were frankly worried about the assembly's image.

It was the legislature that passed the Hot Springs gambling bill. It tinkered with Rockefeller. One of its members said he was offered money to vote for the gambling bill, touching off a grand jury investigation, and another said he was offered an "inducement" to vote for the measure.

The House refused to pass a code of ethics bill, although the legislature approved a mild lobbyist registration measure. The assembly failed to pass several pieces of progressive legislation.

It was, however, a legislature that tolled six extra days to complete its business.

The House considered 738 bills compared to 677 in the 1965 session and the Senate considered 491 compared to 386 in 1965. Gov. Orval Faubus signed 577 bills into law in 1965 while Rockefeller has signed 468 with many more to be delivered to him.

In addition, a legislative committee conducted a 21-day investigation into the state prison system.

Cockrill said, however, "We have not done enough to promote progressive legislative and government goals."

He said the 1966 Democratic platform was a progressive statement of what Democrats believe should be done to improve state government but "we allowed this to be overshadowed by personalities in a self-defeating approach."

Cockrill attributes the failure of at least the House to pass more reform legislation to the lack of aggressive leadership among "new guard" members.

Lack of leadership in both houses was a problem. There was no Democratic program as such, only individual legislation introduced by legislators. Some attempt was made to make the 97 Democrats in the House a cohesive force by formation of a Democratic caucus, but apparently it had no results.

Rockefeller had planned to introduce only a modest program.

With the help of the Democrats, including some Old Guardsmen such as Crank and Rep. Jack S. Oakes of Augusta on occasion, he got a modest return.

U.S., North Koreans in Gunbattle

By K.C. HWANG
SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — American soldiers manning a guard post in the Korean demilitarized zone clashed with a North Korean patrol Wednesday afternoon in one of the most serious gunfights since the 1953 Korean armistice. The U.N. command said three North Koreans were killed, but North Korea claimed it had five dead and one wounded.

The U.N. command said there were no U.S. casualties.

North Korea's Central News Agency said the North Koreans were civil policemen on "routine duty" in the north portion of the demilitarized zone 1.2 miles east of Panmunjom.

The U.N. command said the North Koreans crossed the armistice line into the U.N. portion of the demilitarized zone, and after the American guards spotted them there was an exchange of fire "including fire from North Korean concealed positions across the military demarcation line," which divides the demilitarized zone.

An informed source said a 15-minute gunfight took place after a U.S. patrol challenged the group of seven or eight North Koreans and the Communists opened fire.

The clash occurred about 165 feet south of the military demarcation line and about 35 miles northwest of Seoul, the source added.

The Communist account claimed "the U.S. side fired all of a sudden hundreds of machine-gun and automatic-rifle shots" into the Communist side of the truce zone.

The North Koreans also claimed the Americans agreed to an on-the-spot investigation Wednesday night but failed to send observers. The U.N. command asked for a meeting today of the Joint Military Armistice Commission, but the Communists refused.

Each side accused the other of violating the Korean armistice.

Has Praise for State Legislature

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff said Wednesday that the 1967 Legislature was the "most productive, most misunderstood and most progressive and maligned" in Arkansas' history.

Gathright, in an address to a civic club here, cited four major factors which he said influenced the legislature.

First, he said, was a "hostile" and "inaccurate" press. He said the change in the Senate's presiding officer was the second factor.

A 44-member turnover in the Arkansas House was the third, he said, adding that the outgoing representatives took with them much of the legislative leadership.

Fourth, he said, many citizens previously had never paid any attention to the legislative process.

He said one failure of the press was in not pointing out that Senate rules had been amended last year before the assembly had convened, and then creating an outcry that the changes were aimed at the news administration.

Moss Favors 55 Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said Wednesday that President Johnson's proposal for expanded Social Security benefits is needed badly.

Moss told the House Ways and Means Committee the expansion is needed to "alleviate distress and suffering" among the needy in Arkansas. The committee is conducting hearings on the legislation.

Moss said the minimum benefits of persons now on the welfare rolls ought to be at least $70 a month instead of $44.

Constitution Study Starts

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Within 60 days the state Constitutional Study Revision Commission should have decided how much change Arkansas' 1874 constitution needs, Dr. Robert Leflar, commission chairman, said Tuesday.

He said that after the commission decides on what changes are needed, the next thing will be to decide whether the changes should be made through amendments or by drafting a new document.

Election in Pulaski Likely

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Wednesday that he would make his decision public next week on whether he would call a special election to fill the Pulaski County judge's office.

He said former Gov. Orval Faubus called a special election in 1962 to fill the Columbia County judge's office, giving him a precedent.

The vacancy arose when judge-elect Tom Gulley drowned Nov. 4. County Judge Arch Campbell is continuing as judge.

Coppolino Trial Awaits Full Jury

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — A defense effort to speed up seating a jury was stalled today in the fourth day of Dr. Carl Coppolino's second murder trial.

The attorney-general's counsel, F. Lee Bailey, had asked Judge Lynn Silverthorn to rule that prospective jurors must be asked first their attitude toward capital punishment. The judge told Bailey informally that he can't dictate the line of questioning.

Since Monday more than 35 prospective jurors had been discharged as holding opinions about capital punishment, the defendant's innocence or guilt, and the dependability of circumstantial evidence.

Eleven jurors have passed the prejudice test, but not one has yet been finally impaneled on the jury that will rule on whether Coppolino, 34, fatally drugged his first wife, Carmela, in 1965.

Coppolino, wearing a checked sport jacket, sat impassively in the courtroom while opposing counsels struggled to select the jury which will try him for his life. It was expected the rest of the week would be consumed in jury selection.

Bynum Not Subpoenaed

MCGEEHEE, Ark. (AP) — Former state Rep. Ben Bynum of Dermott said Wednesday that contradictory to news reports he was not subpoenaed to appear before the Pulaski County Grand Jury.

The grand jury is investigating alleged bribe attempts to legislators in connection with the Hot Springs casino gambling bill.

Jury foreman Haco Boyd had said that Bynum could not be located Tuesday.

Bynum said, in an interview with KVSA radio here, that not only was there no difficulty in locating him, but also that he had talked over the telephone with Prosecutor Richard Adkins.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — About 80 students and workers stoned two U.S. firms in Montevideo Tuesday night as Communists intensified their campaign against President Johnson's impending visit for the inter-American summit conference at Punta del Este.

Wortham Embarrassed by Escapade

By ROBERT L. SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A young former American Army officer arrested in the Soviet Union for theft and currency violations returned home last night saying he was embarrassed by his escapade but grateful for his release.

Buel Ray Wortham, 25, of North Little Rock said he had been "almost sure" he would have to serve a three-year sentence a Soviet court gave him and had braced himself for the worst. He said he was thankful when he was released on a $5,555 fine.

"This is the moment we've been praying for," said his mother, Mrs. Buel C. Wortham, who hadn't seen her son since he left for Army duty in Europe 2½ years ago.

Wortham's parents, other relatives and friends met his plane from New York, where the ex-paratrooper arrived Saturday after spending some time in Europe upon his release March 11.

He and Craddock Gilmour Jr. of Salt Lake City, Utah, were arrested in the Soviet Union while on a junket after their discharge from the Army. Wortham was charged with stealing a small statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel and both he and Gilmour were charged with illegally exchanging currency.

Both pleaded guilty. Gilmour was freed on a $1,111 fine and Wortham was sentenced to three years in a labor camp in December. The sentence was reduced to a fine by an appeals court.

"You just don't know how embarrassing it is," Wortham said of the theft and currency violations, calling them "foolish acts."

Wortham was reluctant to detail his experiences, saying he planned to try to sell his story to a magazine. He said he wanted to pay back North Little Rock residents who contributed to a fund to raise bail for him while the court considered his appeal.

North Little Rock put up $22,222 for his bond, but Mayor W. F. Laman said yesterday all Wortham owed of the money was $323.62. Wortham apparently didn't know this.

He declined comment on his treatment, but said it was "23 pounds harsh," referring to the weight he lost during 85 days of solitary confinement.

Wortham said that during the two weeks after this arrest in which no American official was allowed to see him he was in "pretty low spirits at times — a forgotten man."

DOWN WITH STEADYING

Dear Helen: I've had it. Unite, kids, and stamp out steadying. At least half the girls I know would rather go out with different fellows, but we can't. The minute we date a boy more than once, the other guys back off. The minute a girl shows interest in a boy the other girls put him down if he isn't "true" to her — even if she doesn't want it that way.

It's ridiculous, But nobody will change it. So I'm going to start a campaign through your column, Helen.

Who wants to join S.O.S.? That means — STAMP OUT STEADYING. Let's get back to the good old days my mother tells about when a girl and boy could play the field without getting a reputation? I want to be pals with lots of boys, not tied to one — and definitely not in love with one!!! — ANYONE FOR S.O.S.

Dear S.O.S.: I'm with you all the way. Anyone for S.O.S. drop me a line. Maybe we'll get some action — finally — on this "steady" business many kids groan about but no one, till now, has gone about changing. — H.

Dear Helen: My mother won't let me have a skateboard. She says it's too dangerous. I know how to ride one and have never hurt myself. All my friends have them. I won't ask you to go against my mother, Helen, but, tell me, do your kids ride them? — SITTING SPECTATOR

Dear S.S.: Our four not only have had skateboards — and loved them — but own water skis, ice skates and a pogo stick. They also go for trampolines (so do I), snow sports and diving from high boards. And the Bottels have been amazingly free of broken bones — so far. — H.

Dear Helen: Here's my problem. I have fallen hard for a really nice girl. But I'm used to the other kind. We've been going together eight months and I wouldn't hurt her for anything. So why do I keep trying when I know she's too decent to give in?

Helen, we plan on marriage after we graduate this year. What makes me get so forward that she has threatened to break up with me if I don't stop? I don't want to. I love and honor her. I would probably be disappointed and disillusioned if she ever gave in. So what's with me anyway? — A LOW DOWN DOG

Dear LDD: If you didn't want the girl you love, you wouldn't be normal. But if you plan marriage in just a few months you can certainly wait — and your girl knows it must be that way. Help her keep YOUR respect. She'd like to earn that wedding veil! — H.

Dear Helen: My girl friend is a great and terrific person, but there's one thing about her I can't stand. She has hair on her upper lip. This drives me batty. Is there any polite way I could tell her I hate it? And how can she get rid of it? — DAVE

Dear Dave: She can get rid of a "moustache" with a good depilatory or cosmetic "sandpaper" which she may buy at any drug or variety store. But "telling her about it" is something I'd hate to tackle if I were in your shoes.

Maybe you could lead up to it with a discussion of "electrolysis" — the permanent removal of unwanted hair — and she might get the idea. — H.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'll go to the Oscars in a tuxedo, but I'll be darned if they'll get me in a set of tails."

This was the initial comment by Yakima Canutt upon learning that he was to be presented with a special Academy Award Monday night.

The citation to be read by Canutt's good friend Charlton Heston: "For creating the profession of stuntman as it exists today and for the development of many safety devices used by stuntmen everywhere."

The average citizen might wonder why the prestigious academy would be rewarding a stuntman. Movie buffs know why. They recognize Yakima as a Western star of the 1920s, later a fearless, imaginative stuntman, and more recently the director of action sequences in such films as "Ben-Hur," and "El Cid."

Heston, who performed under Canutt's tutelage in the latter epics, has cited good reason for Yak's honor:

"In the old days stuntmen were a disorganized bunch who could take a chance on anything. A lot of them got killed that way. Yakima came along and reduced stunt work to a science. He could do greater stunts than anyone else because he developed ways of doing them safely."

Despite his concern over wearing tails at the Oscar ceremony, Canutt expressed pleasure at the honorary award.

"It's a pretty wonderful thing," he commented. "It shows that somebody pays attention to what's up there on the screen." He promised "the shortest speech in my life."

Still erect and firm-muscled at 71, Canutt is a man of action, not words. This has been true since his days as a rodeo star. His prowess as national champion attracted movie interests and he was enlisted as a Western performer.

"I was a pretty lousy actor," he admitted, "but I did star in 48 five-reelers that went pretty well."

When his starring career faded, he switched to heroics for name performers. Among his most memorable riding through burning Atlanta as Clark Gable in "Gone With the Wind," and halting the runaway team as John Wayne in "Stagecoach."

Yakima's stunt career came to a close at 50 when he broke both ankles in a fall for Roy Rogers. He figured it was time to quit. Starting as a director of Republic Westerns, he became a specialist in action scenes for such films as "Ivanhoe," "Knights of the Round Table," "Helen of Troy," "Mogambo," "Fall of the Roman Empire," "Cat Ballou," and "Khartoum." Canutt is Scandinavian and his real first name is Enos. He actually hails from Colfax, Wash., and drew his present name when mistaken for a member of the Yakima rodeo team.

Bear's Diet

A grizzly bear may eat anything from ants to whales. It relishes meat, but devours more vegetation. A grizzly, to break the winter fast, begins on new grass, grazing as contentedly as a cow.

WIN AT BRIDGE

South Recalls East's Bidding

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Everyone bid his head off except West who did not come close to doing justice to his cards. Thus, East and West found themselves defending against three hearts when they could have made game in spades had they bid it. Of course, it would have been a mighty lucky game but three spades would have been a fine contract.

To add real injury to insult, South managed to bring his three-heart contract home. It wasn't too difficult. All South had to do was to remember the bidding.

West opened the ace of spades and continued. East took the second spade and led the four of diamonds. South's king lost to West's ace, whereupon West played his queen of diamonds, which South ruffed.

South drew trumps and paused to reconstruct his opponents' hands. East had overcalled on a suit headed by the king-jack-ten and very little else. West had given his partner one raise and had shown up with the ace of spades and ace-queen of diamonds.

It appeared that East needed the king of clubs to justify his overcall and it also looked as if West would have been able to take a little stronger action if he held that club king in addition to what he had already shown.

Therefore it seemed certain that East held the king of clubs and that the club finesse was certain to be a loser.

South could afford to lose one club trick—not two. East held the king of clubs, but he did not have to hold three of them. South led a club to dummy's ace, ruffed a spade back to his hand, led a second club and played low from dummy. East had to play his king and South was home with the bacon.

Baltimore Choice in American

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has too many Robinsons for the rest of the American League and should win a second straight pennant. In this book, the only teams with solid chances to upend the favorites are the Detroit Tigers and the Minnesota Twins.

Despite the sore arms on Hank Bauer's pitching staff, the Orioles combine booming power, a tight defense and a strong bullpen. Bauer got only 23 complete games out of his staff last year but won easily by nine games and then swept the World Series in four straight.

It is tough to pick against a combination like that although the writer toyed with the idea of selecting Detroit. It is the feeling here that the Tigers could win it all but they have too many ifs in their pitching staff and could be ruined by an injury to a front liner.

With the addition of Dean Chance, the Twins do have formidable pitching but too much depends on a comeback by Bob Allison and development in center field. The latent power is present for another year like 1965.

Chicago's pitching should keep them in the race and Cleveland and California probably will fight it out for the other first-division berth.

The New York Yankees figure to escape the cellar but it will be an upset if they crack the top five. Kansas City has good young pitching which could be enough to put them ahead of Boston and Washington.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Baltimore
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. California
7. New York
8. Kansas City
9. Boston
10. Washington

If Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Steve Barber are not entirely sound when the seasons gets started, the Orioles may have to deal off a surplus outfielder to bolster the staff. Tom Phoebus, the young man who pitched two shutouts in his first two starts last fall but was not eligible for the Series, joins the starting rotation.

Frank Robinson, recovering from off-season knee surgery, and Brooks Robinson form a devastating punch. Toss in Boog Powell and Curt Blefary and add a few homers from Andy Etchebarren and the Orioles look real tough. Stu Miller, Eddie Fisher and Mo Drabowsky are expert firemen.

Mayo Smith appears to have the Tigers pulling together and hustling and Johnny Sain, his pitching coach, is doing a job with Joe Spurma. If Sain can provide enough strong arms to back up Denny McLain, Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich, the Tigers really could be tough.

Dick McAuliffe has made the switch from short to second and Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup form a strong outfield.

The Twins' pitching is solid with Chance added to Jim Kaat, Jim Perry, Jim Grant and Dave Boswell. Harmon Killebrew is booming homers in exhibition games and Tony Oliva always is a threat for the batting title. Center and left could present problems to Manager Sam Mele.

Celtics Lose 3rd Game in Playoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The sun began rising in the West, rivers starting running uphill, the Beatles walked into a barber shop, and the Boston Celtics stood on the verge of elimination in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston sank three games behind Philadelphia in their Eastern Division playoff and another 76er victory Sunday in Boston would uncrown the Celtics after eight years as NBA champions.

The 76ers moved the Celtics closer to the brink by whipping them 115-104. Wednesday night for a 3-0 lead in their best-of-7 series as Wilt Chamberlain controlled everything.

In the Western Division, the result was less traumatic as the St. Louis Hawks pulled away from visiting San Francisco in the third period and beat the Warriors 115-109 for their first triumph in three playoff games.

Chamberlain took the game in Philadelphia into his own big hands, scoring 20 points, assisting on nine baskets, blocking shots and pulling down a playoff record 41 rebounds. He shared the old mark of 40 with Boston's Bill Russell.

It was big Wilt's dunk in the final period that put the 76ers ahead to stay 100-99, and when Wally Jones followed with three baskets and Chet Walker one for a 108-102 spread, the game was over.

Chamberlain had help from Hal Greer, who scored 30 points, and Jones, who hit 21.

Russell gave it a battle as he, John Havlicek and Sam Jones tried to protect the unprecedented reign of the Celtics. The player-coach grabbed 29 rebounds, had nine assists and scored nine points. Havlicek had 33 points and Jones 22.

Bill Bridges played the superman role for the Hawks as they kept alive their hopes moving into Saturday night's fourth game in St. Louis.

Bridges scored 25 points and pulled in a career high 32 rebounds to help offset 31 points by Rick Barry and 20 by Jeff Mullins.

The Warriors led 58-53 at intermission, but Lou Hudson sparked St. Louis' third period drive that outscored the Warriors 42-28. The rookie hit 12 of his 18 points in the period, including eight straight for a 93-78 margin. San Francisco never got closer than five after that.

Horsemen Force Race Track Closing

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Aqueduct race track, where as high as $6 million has been wagered in one day, has been closed for two days. The shutdown has cost the State of New York an estimated $600,000. The track has lost half that amount in revenue.

Irked by failure of the Democratic-controlled State Assembly to pass a bill which would have added $3.5 million to purses, horsemen have refused to enter their horses. Anthony Travia, Democratic speaker of the Assembly and head of the Rules Committee, has told the horsemen to tighten their belts and wait another year and then ask again for more money.

The measure had been recommended by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican, and passed overwhelmingly by the Republican-controlled Senate. The measure would have reduced the state's share of the wagering from 10 to 9.5 per cent.

Travia said he couldn't justify giving $3.5 million to horsemen when it was needed in so many other areas. Backers of the measure argue that increased purses would lead to better racing and increased revenue to the state.

Gov. Rockefeller has adopted a wait and see attitude. He has the power to call a special session of the legislature to consider the bill, which died in a committee when the state law-making body adjourned last Sunday.

Gary Player Now Just a Coy Kitten

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player, once a tiny tiger, is now just a coy kitten.

The fiercely burning competitive drive that made him one of the most feared golfers in the world has dwindled to a flicker and he's the forgotten man of the Big Three.

"I don't get charged up any more," the dapper little South African said today as he teed off in another Masters. "I keep trying to get it back, get that drive, that desire, but it just isn't there any more."

"When you have achieved all your goals, your thinking changes, your whole outlook on life changes."

Player, along with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, made up the Big Three that dominated the game for several years. But that all changed in 1965 when Gary won the U.S. Open championship in St. Louis.

"I was so wound up then I didn't know where I was," Player recalled. "I didn't want to talk to people. I had a short temper. I was almost obsessed."

That changed when he won the title in a playoff with Kel Nagle.

"That did it," Player said. "When I won that one I felt I had achieved everything and I stopped working on golf."

The victory made him only the third man to win all four major tournaments — the Open, the Masters, the PGA and the British Open — and he went into semi-retirement.

He made infrequent appearances last year, was not a factor in any major tournament and isn't expected to be in this one.

Palmer, the only four-time Masters champ, and Nicklaus, defending champion and three-time winner, were co-favorites at 6-1 when the field of 83 of the world's best golfers teed off on the demanding 6,980-yard, par 72 Augusta National Course.

Doug Sanders and U.S. Open Champ Billy Casper were next at 8-1 while Player, Gay Brewer and Julius Boros were listed at 10-1.

Looked Like a Family Affair

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Last week Albuquerque Rio Grande High School baseball player Marvin Pohl hit a home run off a pitch thrown by his younger brother, Mike Pohl, who attends Albuquerque West Mesa High.

It helped Rio Grande to a 10-0 victory in which senior Marvin Pohl was the winning pitcher and Mike Pohl, a junior, was the loser.

The tables were turned Tuesday when the two teams met again.

Mike Pohl cracked a game-winning single off Marvin Pohl, who was relief pitcher, and West Mesa won 7-6.

Marvin Pohl attends Rio Grande because West Mesa, a new school, doesn't have a senior class yet.

Sun Causes Game to Be Called

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was former Dodger pitcher Billy Loes who once explained an error by claiming he had lost a ground ball in the sun, but that could hardly have prepared the baseball world for the great Las Vegas sunout.

It happened Wednesday when the Chicago Cubs and California Angels were locked in a fierce exhibition struggle in the gambling capital.

The score was 10-10 and Angels pitcher Rickey Clark leaned in, looking for the plate, but couldn't find it. The sun, on the horizon directly behind the plate, was so blinding, in fact, that he couldn't see much of anything.

Clark called umpire Stan Landes to come out to the mound and take a look. Landes agreed the situation was intolerable and called the game off.

Billy Williams batted in five runs for the Cubs, two each on a pair of tremendous home runs. But the Angels scored four unearned runs in the ninth that tied the game.

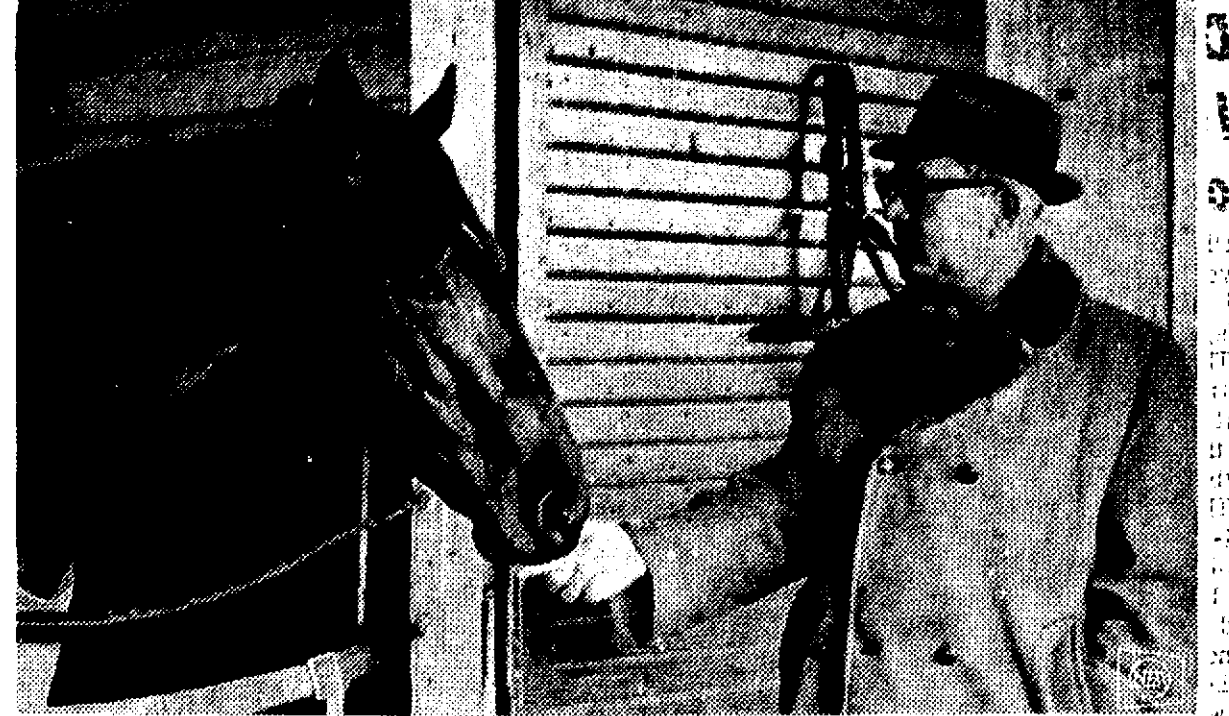

Paul Schaal and Jimmie Hall hit home runs for the Angels.

Rich Allen and Bob Uecker homered for Philadelphia, but St. Louis rallied for two runs in the seventh innings and beat the Phils 5-4.

Washington came up with four runs in the ninth, two scoring on a single by Doug Camilli, and bounced Boston 5-1. FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The largest turnout in history for spring football training greeted Coach Frank Broyles Wednesday and he hustled them through a two-hour workout.

He was referring to the weight that many of the players had lost.

Dave Bing Is Rookie of Year

DETROIT (AP) — "I would have been happier if our team did better and made the playoffs," said Dave Bing.

That was the reaction of the Detroit Pistons' star to the news that he had been named Rookie of the Year in the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-3 former Syracuse All-America was the runaway choice, being named on 74 of the 90 ballots cast by sportswriters and broadcasters, the league announced Wednesday.

Lou Hudson of the St. Louis Hawks, a former Minnesota standout, got 13 votes. Archie Clark of Los Angeles got the other three.

Bing, who gets $500 from the league for being the top rookie, acknowledged that "I had a good season," but it didn't start that way.

He wasn't even Detroit's prime choice in the NBA draft a year ago.

The Pistons wanted to pick an attraction closer to home — Michigan star Cazzie Russell — but a coin flip for first pick was won by New York and the Knicks plucked Russell out of the list.

Detroit took Bing, instead. Bing, a guard, was confident — "I bought a home on Detroit's northwest side before he played his first game — but wasn't a house afire at the start."

In his seventh game, he pumped in 16 points. In the next 80 games, he was out of the double figure column just once.

On 12 occasions he scored more than 30 and on March 8 he hit his high point — 47 points.

With an average of 20 per game, Bing became the fifth-highest rookie scorer in NBA history. He had 1,601 points.

The soft-spoken Bing finished the season as the 10th-ranking scorer in the league and also led Detroit in assists.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Woody Allen's former wife, charging he held her up to public ridicule in his television routines, has filed a $1-million defamation of character suit against him and the National Broadcasting Co.

Allen and NBC were ordered Monday to produce tapes and scripts from the Johnny Carson and Perry Como shows in New York State Supreme Court in Manhattan Friday.

Liked Working With Chaplin

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Sophia Loren says working with Charlie Chaplin was the highlight of her career and she would have no hesitation about making another movie with him.

Miss Loren starred opposite Marion Brando in Chaplin's "The Countess from Hong Kong," which drew mixed reviews.

"I do not know whether I will be the protagonist of his next movie," she said in an interview. "But if Chaplin calls me, I will rush to work with him. Chaplin has been the greatest experience of my career and it will remain unique if I do not make another movie for him."

U.S. Entered WWI 50 Years Ago Today

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty years ago today the United States entered World War I — called the Great War until a greater one came along — and stepped toward a role in world leadership.

On that day, Lyndon B. Johnson was an 8-year-old in a Texas hamlet.

Hubert H. Humphrey, 6, was learning his ABC's in Wallace, S.D.

Robert F. Kennedy was not born until some eight years later.

But there is one man who was in Congress when war was declared April 6, 1917, who is still there — Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz. He'll be 90 next fall.

Hayden came to the House in 1912 on admission of Arizona as a state. He served there until elected to the Senate in 1926.

In a war anniversary interview, Hayden recalled long hours of debate before the House passed the war resolution 373 to 50 in the early morning hours of April 6.

But of all that was said, Hayden related, "I remember most distinctly the remarks of Jeanette Rankin, the lady from Montana."

Miss Rankin, a Republican and the first woman elected to the House, did not respond until her name had been called four times on the roll call. Then, close to tears, she stood and said, "I want to stand by my country, but I cannot vote for war. I vote no."

Hayden said when he voted for the war declaration he was expressing the overwhelming view of his constituents.

One incident that moved the United States toward war was disclosure of a reported German proposal to Mexico that it, Germany and Japan join in a war against the United States. Mexico, it was suggested, would get the states of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

Hayden related that with the declaration of war he and a number of his House colleagues began to talk about volunteering.

"Three members joined before (President) Woodrow Wilson issued an executive order to prohibit any more of us from joining," Hayden continued.

"One of them was Fiorello La Guardia of New York."

"By the middle of 1918, when this ban had kind of been forgotten, four of us went down and enlisted and served until after the armistice."

He named the other three as retired Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, then a Texas representative; another Texan, the late Sen. Tom Connally, then in the House, and the late Albert Johnson, a representative from Washington.

Hayden, a captain in the Arizona National Guard, was made a major and was commanding an infantry battalion at Ft. Lewis, Wash., when discharged.

At NBC, a notice was pinned on the news desk for supervisory personnel filling in for striking broadcasters.

It read: "Brass talent: All copy must be at the copy desk 20 minutes before air time — per instructions of you executives."

One of those executives, George Heintemann, usually a producer, launched his new, if temporary, career as an on-camera weatherman by stating: "The temperature tomorrow will be in the fifty-ones and fifty-tuos."

The following night, he apologized for the flub.

"I was kidding about it all day," he told his audience. "Anyway, the temperature tomorrow will be in the sixty-ones to sixty-fives. Winds will be mostly westerly."

He also apologized for his first-night nervousness. It was due, he said, to the fact that his socks were falling down.

Ex-Commies Hired as U.S. Scouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is hiring former Communist soldiers to help American troops locate Viet Cong guerrillas and their hideouts in South Vietnam, Pentagon sources report.

This new intelligence program was launched early this year in extreme northern areas of the country near the demilitarized zone. The repatriated enemy troops are called Kilt Carson scouts.

They lead Marine patrols into the countryside to identify Communist guerrillas — usually indistinguishable from the friendly populace among whom they live — and locate enemy tunnels, arms and ammunition.

Sixty scouts, most of them former Viet Cong who were trained in North Vietnam and thus are intimate with enemy operations, are on the U.S. payroll.

High Priced Picket Line for Strikers

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — For nine days, long black limousines have pulled up at the three major broadcast networks to discharge their stars, not for work, but for what must be the most star-studded, highest-paid picket lines ever.

There was for instance, John Daly, son-in-law of the U.S. chief justice and erudite moderator of the CBS panel show "What's My Line?"

Around and around the CBS building he went, his back and chest emblazoned with black and red letters proclaiming, "CBS Unfair to AFTRA" (the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists).

He stopped to sign autographs and chat with admirers, and proposed electrically heated picket signs for winter strikes. When one young woman demanded, "Who are you," he replied, "Walter Cronkite."

But the real Walter Cronkite hasn't shown up to picket, although he has not gone to work either. Nor has David Brinkley of NBC.

ABC's network newscaster, Peter Jennings, did turn up for his strike placards at least once and was so mobbed by screaming fans that he may have had second thoughts about showing up again.

The striking Cronkite, Brinkley and Jennings, and many of their companions, earn annual salaries well into six figures. They walked off their jobs for some 100 members of their 18,000-member union who make around $300 a week.

Pedestrian traffic on any side of the street where the star-pickets march has been about three times as heavy as the crowds on the other side, with strollers either stopping for autographs and snapshots or peering over sun glasses for quick glimpses.

Police usually assigned to keep pickets walking are absent, and the star-pickets stop often to affix their names to scraps of paper. One agent has even sent out press notices on when his client would picket.

One fan planted himself in front of Hugh Downs, host of NBC's "Today" show, and asked, "Are you anybody famous?"

"No," Downs replied.

Wednesday, the pickets were counter-picketed by Lillian Miller, 69, who has become a sort of personality in her own right, frequently attending TV broadcasts.

"Unfair to Devoted Studio Audiences," Mrs. Miller's sign read.

Her testimony trailed off and the judge called a brief recess.

She said that when Speck returned after 45 minutes, he switched on the light and jingled some change. Miss Amurao said he turned off the light and left the room.

bedroom where three other student nurses were sleeping.

"What happened when you went to the south bedroom?" Martin asked.

"I rushed to the rear of the bedroom, going to the small closet," Miss Amurao said. "Miss Gargallo and Miss Valentina Pasion was behind me."

The three girls, all from the Philippines, were in the closet five minutes before an American nurse persuaded them to come out. The three Americans in the room were Pamela Wilkening, Patricia Matusek, and Nina Schmale.

Miss Amurao said Speck told the girls he needed money to go to New Orleans and that each got out her purse and gave him some bills.

She said Speck pulled out a knife, sliced a bed sheet into strips, and began tying the girls' ankles and wrists.

"Then Speck counted at us, by pointing the gun, and he said, 'one, two, three, four, five, six.'"

She said Speck heard a female voice downstairs and stood behind the door waiting as Gloria Davy entered the room.

"Miss Davy was surprised and she screamed in a low voice. And then Speck thrust the gun close towards Davy's body."

"When Speck was tying Miss Davy's ankles, Miss Davy said, 'Why are you doing that for? We are student nurses.' Then Speck answered 'Oh, you are a student nurse,' and Speck was smiling during this time."

The witness said the killer cut the sheets on Miss Wilkening's ankles and led her from the room.

"After about one minute, I heard Miss Wilkening say, 'ah.' It was like a sigh," she said.

Suzanne Farris and Mary Ann Jordan were the last victims to enter the bedroom. Miss Amurao said Speck did not blind them, but ordered them out of the room. He followed, closing the door.

In short sentences she described how each of the victims was led or dragged to her death in other rooms of the house.

She said she heard water running in the bathroom shortly before the killer returned for another victim. She said the intruder was absent from the large bedroom 20-25 minutes with each girl.

One victim was found in the bathroom, another in a hallway, two in one bedroom and three piled on the floor of another room. Miss Davy, the final victim, was found nude in the first-floor living room.

Miss Amurao broke down a second time when she was asked to describe the rape of Miss Davy.

Her testimony trailed off and the judge called a brief recess.

When she resumed her testimony, Miss Amurao sat on the courtroom floor and demonstrated how after discovering the room was empty, she crawled, with her wrists and ankles bound, to a more concealed location under another bed.

LBJ to Be Guarded as Usual

By KENNETH L. DAVIS

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — At the conference next week of 21 hemisphere chief executives, President Johnson will be guarded as usual, but an extra precaution is being taken to guard him against the local brand of mosquito, small enough to squeeze through window screens.

Technicians of the U.S. State Department are installing air conditioning in the bedroom of the palatial chalet called Beaulieu, where the President will stay during the conference. Thus: No need for window screens and no route for a mosquito invasion.

Other than that Beaulieu, summer home of an Argentine industrialist, needs little renovating for Johnson's stay, a U.S. official said.

The white brick house sits atop a grassy knoll, overlooking the Atlantic Ocean. It is a South American version of an English manor house — built in 1960 as a modest dwelling but expanded to include a formal garden with a swimming pool and a built-in barbecue, a standard for beef-eating Argentines and Uruguayans. Punta Del Este is a summer playground for many Argentines from across the River Plata.

The chalet is less than a half mile from the Hotel San Rafael, site of the summit conference. President Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay has rented a place across the road from it.

Johnson's chalet has four bedrooms with baths on the second floor. On the ground floor are a living room, dining room, pantry and kitchen. There are also quarters for eight servants.

The furnishings are informal. The living room, 35 by 20 feet, overlooks the garden and swimming pool. At one end of the room is a built-in bar. The color scheme is green and gold and the furniture is done in floral patterns.

The presidential bedroom is 21 by 18. The color scheme is tan. The State Department is installing better lighting in the bathroom.

President Johnson's staff will bring along sheets, bedspreads, pillow cases and other household gear.

A new stove is being put into the kitchen, and the Uruguayan government is setting up a flag pole to fly the Stars and Stripes. On the walls of the house are paintings by Argentine and Uruguayan artists.

The chalet was selected by the U.S. Embassy because of its short distance from the meeting site and the ease with which it can be kept under vigilance. It is hidden from the road by pine woods.

By JOHN VINOCUR NEW YORK (AP) — Walk-outs by engineers and other technicians in sympathy with the AFTRA performers strike took hold today in several areas of network radio and television, as officials of NBC and ABC said "amateur" replacements were responsible for a night of wavering sound and blurred pictures.

"We'll have them returning reruns soon," a union leader said after engineers stayed away from work today at ABC and NBC in New York. Their ABC and NBC counterparts at Los Angeles said they too would refuse to work.

The engineers, members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, were among 15 theatrical unions, including cameramen, technicians, stagehands, set designers, musicians and electricians who voted Wednesday to support the nine-day old strike of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

The move "will obviously hurt us," a network spokesman said. AFTRA's executive secretary, Donald F. Conway commented: "If this doesn't shut down the networks it will surely slow them down."

In immediate jeopardy was weekend sports coverage, including the Masters golf tournament on CBS, although that network reported its engineers were on their jobs.

But an AFTRA spokesman in Los Angeles said men arriving at the Augusta, Ga., course to telecast the event were being told to honor AFTRA picket lines. As a result, the spokesman said, the tournament may not be broadcast.

'Cook Out' Burns Cong From Tunnel

By PETER ARNETT
LAI THIEU, Vietnam (AP)—Powerful blowers that "cook out" Viet Cong guerrillas with blasts of air heated to 1,000 degrees are being used north of Saigon.

The blowers are the latest gadgetry to evolve in the frustrating wars of the tunnels in old-time Communist redoubts in the populated areas around Saigon.

U.S. 1st Division troops have been experimenting with the air blowers in the tangled Thuan Giao jungle east of the district town of Lai Thieu 10 miles north of Saigon. The heated air was blasted into a tunnel complex this week after a Viet Cong had thrown grenades at two 1st Division "tunnel rats." He did not come out, and apparently escaped through a hidden exit.

Other common techniques to clear tunnels are to blow in tear gas or burn the insides with flamethrowers. The hot air technique utilizes the 30-pound "mighty mite" blowers used normally in forcing tear gas into tunnels. The air is heated by a power generator working off a battery, and forced into a tunnel entrance.

The device is being used by a joint task force headed by Lt. Col. Robert Schweitzer of Chicago.

One technique is to remove patches of jungle that have harbored Viet Cong guerrillas, base camps and arms caches for years. "Rome plows" with huge iron blades that can clear 10 acres a day, and bulldozers, have carved out huge patches of jungle north of Saigon.

Schweitzer said the "hot air" technique is applied gradually to tunnels where Viet Cong are believed hiding. The tunnel inhabitants are warned by loudspeaker.

Then the blowers begin. The loudspeakers continue exhorting the Viet Cong to leave the tunnels as the temperature rises.

Eventually, blasts of 1,000 degrees are directed into the tunnel.

"Tunnel rats" can explore the tunnels soon afterward because they cool quickly. When gas is used, tunnels are contaminated for days.

"It is necessary for us to provide the utmost protection for our men, and this is one way of doing it," Schweitzer said.

The jungle area being probed east of Lai Thieu is believed to be the base camp of a Viet Cong district company. Documents, including list of party members and guerrillas, were discovered in underground rooms, along with three typewriters, several weapons and propaganda.

The policy of grinding down the jungle and probing every tunnel will drive out the Viet Cong and once and for all, Schweitzer believes.

A companion program to the jungle destruction is the farming of newlands, with U.S. aid. As the bulldozers move out, Vietnamese refugees move in, first of all gathering up the firewood, and then staking out the land for farms.

"Our part of this job is next to the final phase," Schweitzer said.

Campaign Spending by Congressmen Exceeds Far Beyond Allowance

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—In a hard-fought campaign in northern Virginia's 10th Congressional District, Republican Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, spent $91,000 in winning re-election. Democratic challenger Clive DuVal spent $125,000 in a losing effort.

Yet federal law says House candidates can't spend more than $5,000. Senate candidates are limited to $25,000.

Where does that put Broyhill and DuVal? Right in the midst of the large number of candidates who have found it hard to run for Congress without breaking the spirit if not the letter of the federal Corrupt Practices Act.

The race between Broyhill and DuVal was typical of hard-fought — and free-spending — 1966 House campaigns in urban areas.

A survey of campaign fund reports required by law showed today that most candidates spent far more than $5,000 in House races.

The limit was set in 1925. As time passed and the costs of campaigning rose, loopholes were found in the tough-sounding law.

Thus in 1964, $193,000 was collected to finance the campaign of Richard L. Ottinger for a House seat from New York.

A violation of the law? Not really. The federal law doesn't cover committees operating within a single state. The Ottinger campaign funds were collected by 30 committees. They didn't have to go far to find contributors. The total collected included $168,000 parceled out to various committees by the candidate's mother and sister.

The report Ottinger had to file with the House clerk to satisfy

Printed by Offset
The federal law showed no contributions or expenditures.

Another loophole is the exemptions allowed by the law.

Personal travel expenses, meals, postage, printing, telephone and telegraph bills are among the items not included in the spending limits.

DuVal reported that his unsuccessful campaign cost $125,867. Of that total $1,789 was listed under the $5,000 limit. The remainder was lumped in the exempt category.

Broyhill reported spending $91,986, all of it in the exempt category.

But the biggest loophole of all has been simply ignoring the law.

Congressional sources say enforcement would be the responsibility of the Department of Justice.

But a department spokesman said it has no intention of policing Congress without a specific invitation from the House or Senate.

The reports filed in the House showed a broad range of interpretation of the law's provisions as well as widely differing attitudes toward it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Black calcite, a common mineral that in the past had always been considered worthless, may be a significant new source of silver, says The World Almanac. Rich quantities of silver, invisible to the naked eye, have recently been found in the mineral. Laboratory tests of black calcite taken from Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico have been found to contain up to 1,500 ounces of silver per ton. Interestingly, western silver miners of the 1800s often used black calcite as a guide to silver ore.

Hope Gets Into New York Report; Fancy Gadget

It's not often that a country newspaper finds itself mentioned in the annual financial report of a New York industry - but it's happened to The Star.

A friend this week left me a copy of the superbly-printed brochure of Berkey Photo, Inc., of which Berkey Technical Corp. is an operating unit, and on Page 15 I read:

"First shipments of Berkey Tech's most important new product - the Berkey Direct Screen System - were made during 1966. . . . A number of newspapers have purchased the system, including the Deer Park (Long Island) Suffolk Sun, the Chicago Tribune, and the 3,300-circulation Hope Star in Hope, Arkansas. Sales of the Berkey Direct Screen System are expected to increase in 1967."

I didn't know what the report would say but I did know Hope was going to be mentioned because Berkey Technical Corp. called me up two months ago and told me so. The Berkey color separator is a Norwegian invention which the New York company brought over here for manufacture along with its co-inventor, Arve Jensen. Mr. Jensen was in Hope last January and set up The Star's machine. Suffolk Sun bought the first machine sold to an American newspaper, a 4x5-inch model. Hope Star bought the second machine - the first of the largest 8x10-inch model; and the third purchaser was the Chicago Tribune with another 8x10.

Apparently Berkey is getting along financially, shaping up as the General Motors of the photographic equipment world. Sales of 58 millions in 1965 rose to $85 millions in 1966, and net income increased from 2.9 million to 3.8.

I am aware that Berkey has become one of the so-called glamour stocks but this writer hasn't bought any, simply because he isn't a market trader. Berkey is a growing company but I would caution you against imagining it to be another Polaroid "growth stock." Polaroid deals in consumer goods, where growth is unlimited. But Berkey's field is rather limited - selling complex, high-priced machines to industry.

Finally, being highly expansionist, buying up other firms and introducing new inventions, Berkey isn't yet on a dividend basis. Its earnings indicate it will get there - but until they do its stock is something for speculators rather than savings investment.

I mention this in justice to all our subscribers, for we have given Berkey a great deal of publicity - and none of it has anything to do with buying and selling stocks.

The Star is working on its next color "splash" - a couple of six-column Ektachromes on the Hot Springs races. If we get them into print before Saturday, when the racing season ends, we'll do the job alone. Garland Bosley, our Jungkling photo supply expert from Little Rock, coached me last night in the use of a new technical gadget, the Mochet Densitometer - which measures the color transparency before you start making separation negatives on the Berkey machine. We came out all right.

If all goes well we may get the race pictures into Friday's edition. But it's a 50-50 bet, and I wouldn't put any money on it.

Dr. Whitlow to Speak Here

Dr. S. A. Whitlow, executive secretary of the Arkansas Baptist Convention, Little Rock, will return to Hope Sunday to preach both services at First Baptist Church.

He will be filling the pulpit in the absence of the Rev. Gerald W. Trussell who flies to Topeka, Kansas, Friday where he will be the evangelist in a revival campaign.

The Rev. Mr. Trussell has a week's engagement at First Southern Baptist Church in Topeka, April 7 through April 14.

LBJ Backs Away From Tax Hike

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) - The administration appears quietly to be backing away from a July 1 effective date for its proposed 6 per cent surtax on most income taxes.

But the surtax itself, key officials insisted today, is still very much alive and will be needed during the second half of the year to help stem inflation in what they predict will be an expanding economy.

The critical question now is in the timing.

Although the July 1 effective date is still considered a possibility by the administration - "It's still in the ballpark," one analyst said - the chances reportedly are good that it might eventually be abandoned officially.

Reasons are the opposition in Congress to the surtax itself and the current sluggishness in the economy, which is deeper than government economists anticipated in January when the surtax was proposed.

Officials want the latest economic figures in hand when they approach Congress later this spring with their formal surtax proposal.

By June, when the House Ways and Means Committee has indicated it will hold hearings on the surtax, government economists hope they will have the economic facts to support their plan.

But the general coolness of Congress could prompt a later effective date - Sept. 1 or Oct. 1 for example.

Local Group to Student Council Meet

"Changeless Values for a Changing Youth" is the theme of the state convention of Student Councils now being held in Blytheville through Saturday, April 8. The Hope High School Student Council is President of the state group, and Larry Don Wright is acting as the presiding officer for the convention.

Today (Thursday) the President's Key-Note Address will be delivered, and Fred O. Ellis will lead a discussion group. Others attending from Hope are Crit Stuart, Jr., Dwight Galloway, Ellen Turner, and Mrs. W. A. Williams. They took a display to the meeting which had been prepared by Jimmy Turner and Linda Luck and which shows various activities at Hope High School.

Things Federal Income Tax Collector Gets Tired of You Saying

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) - Remarks that a federal income tax collector gets tired of hearing at this time of the year:

"Well, you can't get blood out of a turnip."

"What do you guys do with all the money you collect - pour it down the toilet?"

"I own a night club joint. Does that mean I should fill out a joint income tax form?"

"Not that I mind supporting my own government, but why do I have to help support every government in the whole world?"

"Business is business. In my business we give 10 per cent off for cash. Why shouldn't you give me 10 per cent off if I pay cash."

"Irving, don't you recognize me? I used to babysit for you when you were a little boy. Can't you take a little off my tax for old time's sake? After all, who's looking?"

"Can I list a sponge as a dependent? I'm speaking of my brother-in-law. That no-goodnik has been sponging off me ever since I married his sister."

"It isn't the money with me, I assure you. It's the principle of the thing."

"You say I owe you $417. I say you owe me a $312 refund."

Gruesome Story Told by Surviving Nurse Who Points to Speck Plot Fails, Humphrey in Berlin

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) - Public defender Gerald Getty is basing his defense of Richard Speck on an attempt to destroy Corazon Amurao's identification of the 25-year-old seaman as the killer of eight nurses.

Miss Amurao, 24, a nurse from the Philippines, faces cross-examination by Getty on her account of how the nurses were slain.

The young woman was on the witness stand for four hours Wednesday. She sobbed into her white handkerchief twice but otherwise her face was expressionless. Her voice was mostly calm as she told of the night in which her eight roommates were strangled and stabbed on the South Side of Chicago.

The confrontation between the survivor of the July 14 mass killing and Speck in the murder trial came after prosecutor William Martin asked, "Did you wake up at any time Wednesday night, July 13?"

"I heard a knock in our bedroom," the witness said. "It was about four knocks. I went to the door and I unlocked it and I started to open it and at once there's someone pushing the door."

"I saw a man," at this point the 4-foot-10, black-haired nurse cried.

"If you see that same man in the courtroom today, will you please step down and point him out," Martin asked.

The girl walked deliberately from the witness stand to the defense table. She raised her arm and pointed one finger at Speck.

"This is the man," she said. She described the intruder as having marks on his face, dark clothes and "blond hair combed to the back. Martin asked if the defendant looked any different than he did when she first saw him.

"He is just the same," she said. Getty said he would take several hours today to cross examine the witness. Miss Amurao was firm in her identification of the defendant. In subsequent testimony she continually referred to the intruder as "Speck." And at every opportunity she glowered at the defendant. The girl wore a white blouse, a blue skirt, black hose and black flat shoes. She gripped a handkerchief in her left hand through her testimony in the hot courtroom, crowded with more than 80 newsmen and spectators.

She said Speck forced her and Miss Merilita Garcillo to leave their room and go to the south wing of the hotel.

Military Pay Hike Sure, P.O. Maybe

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House appears in a mood to give the military a quick pay raise, but action may be slower on President Johnson's companion requests for a hike in postal rates and a pay raise for federal employees.

Johnson asked Wednesday for a penny-per-letter increase as part of an $800-million postal rate boost and for pay raises which could add up to $2.5 billion.

"We'll do it so fast it will make your head swim," Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, said in reference to the military pay proposal.

But there appeared to be a question of how much of the postal and civilian pay raises would be granted.

The postal plan, including a 6-cent charge for first-class letters and 9 cents for air mail, was termed "the most comprehensive approach to adjustment in our complex postal rate structure" in many years by Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

"I'm inclined to support it," said Rep. Robert J. Corbett of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican committee member.

In the past, the committee has increased administration pay rate proposals for the government's 2.5 million civilian employees, but has trimmed down requested postal rate hikes.

Since 1962, the civilian employees have received pay raises averaging about 23 per cent in a move to make salaries comparable with those in private industry. Johnson's new proposal includes an average boost of 4.5 per cent effective Oct. 1 with further increases Oct. 1, 1968, and Oct. 1, 1969.

Officials said the 4.5 per cent average military pay increase for 3.37 million men would be added to the combination of basic pay, and quarters and subsistence allowances. But most of the money would come in basic pay, producing an actual basic pay increase of 5.6 per cent. This would be effective Oct. 1.

Homemakers Observe Nat'l FHA Week

Future Homemakers of America in each of the fifty states and also in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico are observing National FHA week, which began April 3 and will continue through April 9.

FHA is celebrating its twenty-first birthday. During these twenty-one years FHA has grown to be the largest organization of high school students. In Hope's years in FHA the following are some of the honors that have been received:

In 1961 Virginia Sue Kinsey ranked state second place winner in the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Miss Kinsey was awarded a $500 scholarship.

In 1963, Jan Ellis received the Betty Crocker Search of Homemaker Award. Donna Ayers received a pin and a letter of recognition from Betty Crocker after becoming the HHS Homemaker of Tomorrow, in 1964.

In 1964 Jennifer Smith was one of the ten finalists in the Arkansas Egg Cooking Contest. She was judged first on an egg recipe, then was chosen to represent the Southwest Arkansas District.

This year Carolyn Millican was second place state winner in the Betty Crocker Search of Homemaker Award. She received a $500 scholarship to the college of her choice.

October 29, 1966, several FHA girls and Mrs. Hamilton Hagan attended the annual Federation meeting at Henderson State College. Linda Tye, vice-president of our FHA chapter, was historian presiding at the meeting. Hope has been represented at the federation meetings for many years.

Hope High is proud to be observing National FHA Week. Flower arrangements will be placed in each of the teachers' rooms Thursday, April 6, by the FHA girls. Friday, April 7, is color day. All FHA members will wear the traditional red and white ribbons.

Susan Cobb of Hope will be a member of the scenery crew for the Southern State College speech department's workshop theater production, "Antigone," to be staged April 13-14. . . . she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cobb of 402 S. Fulton Street, is a freshman secondary education major.

B. N. Holt, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been named a second vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Pvt. Richard J. Williams, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams of Hope Rt. 2, has completed an 8-week telephone switchboard operator course at the Army Southern Signal School, Ft. Gordon, Ga. . . . he also was taught various communications systems of the Army.

If you miss a selection on the KXAR Gold Band Bandstand, you can hear them all played in one program, Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 p.m.

Two cultural attractions are scheduled here, one Friday night at 7:30 in the Junior High auditorium and features the Henderson Madrigal Singers directed by Eugene Kuyper and another Tuesday night, a soprano recital by Ann Schotard.

$250,000 Ransom Is Paid for Financier's Son, Youth Is Safe

By FRANK O'Reilly
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - A Beverly Hills financier described today how his 11-year-old son was kidnapped without a hitch, then returned unharmed after a large ransom was paid.

Herbert J. Young, 35, president of Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association, said $250,000 ransom was asked for his son Kenneth, but he did not disclose the amount paid.

Kenneth was bound and blindfolded early today in a car parked in an apartment house garage in nearby Santa Monica. After obeying instructions to wait for a half-hour, he worked loose and ran to the nearest apartment to call his parents. He had been missing since early Monday.

The FBI said the kidnappers picked up the ransom Wednesday in Westwood a few miles from Beverly Hills and were at large.

When he was greeted by the FBI and his family at the apartment, "Kenny was very calm, not hysterical or crying," Young said. "He said, 'Hi, dad, I'm awfully sleepy.' He acted as if he expected it to end all the time. It was like he'd never been gone."

As Kenneth was examined by a doctor and put to bed in the lavish Young home in a fashionable neighborhood, his father calmly described the abduction and the ransom payment. Police theorized that Kenneth was kidnapped as he slept by someone who knew that an outside staircase on the large white house led to a glass door near the boy's bedroom.

A maid discovered Kenneth's empty bed Monday morning and took Young a note she found warning him not to call the police and describing how to turn over $250,000 for the boy's return.

"As soon as we read that note, my wife and I agreed that the thing to do was to call the police immediately," Young recalled. The family and authorities maintained the secret while scores of policemen and FBI agents went to work.

Dressed in a blue polo shirt, black slacks and a tan windbreaker, dragging on a cigarette occasionally, the slightly graying Young sat back in a wicker chair in a spacious room.

"I had half a dozen phone calls Monday but the party at yesterday a jury found G. J. me," he said. "Last night I did Prudhomme, charged with passing an overdrawn, not guilty, the phone booth. The call came Victor Rooks, charged with forgery and uttering, was found guilty by a jury and sentenced to two years on each count."

In the case of Oscar O. Collins, charged with burglary and grand larceny, the burglary charge was dropped and a plea of guilty to grand larceny was entered. The case was passed for sentencing.

Mrs. Houston McClellan was a child at the time of the funeral, and she recalls going to it on a bitter cold day. The man buried was unknown at that time, so it may be assumed that his identity will forever remain a mystery.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Taylor will be in Dallas at the Statler-Hilton Hotel this weekend as guest of the Chevrolet Motor Division for the annual Legion of Leaders Banquet of which Mr. Taylor is a member.

A lady called yesterday and asked what I thought of a man who sent his best friend, both of them supposedly seasoned hunters out to a turkey roost and it turned out to be a buzzard roost? . . . (there are turkey buzzards you know, but we suggest this so-called hunter had better have his nose examined.)

Red Attack on Quang Tri Stalled

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON, (AP) - Communist troops smashed at U.S. and Vietnamese military positions and staged a jailbreak today at Quang Tri, a provincial capital 16 miles south of the border that would be a primary objective of any new mass invasion attempt from the north.

They ringed the city in raids between midnight and dawn. They attacked U.S. antiaircraft gun positions and the headquarters of two Vietnamese army regiments and shelled the U.S. military advisers' compound.

They freed more than 200 prisoners from the provincial jail - most of whom had been picked up as Viet Cong suspects.

Initial reports said 10 American soldiers were killed and 13 wounded while the Communists left 47 men dead. Two American government civilian employees were injured.

Eight trucks were burned at one post and four jeeps and three trucks were damaged at another. At a small airstrip, two light observation planes were shot down.

More Communists made sporadic attacks on several village teams of South Vietnamese revolutionary development workers, who have become prime Communist targets as a result of advances in the government's pacification program.

South Vietnamese headquarters said that at least 47 Communists were killed in the attacks. South Vietnamese casualties were described as light, but the losses were evidently more serious than reflected in the official report.

There was no immediate indication how many war prisoners had been freed. The camp was not identified in first reports but was probably a forward clearing camp for initial interrogation of prisoners. If so, it normally would contain no more than a dozen or so prisoners.

Quang Tri Province, defended by about a division of U.S. Marines plus the Vietnamese, 1st Division and militia troops, is a prime Red invasion target.

The Communists are known to have some 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in the province and just to the north above the 17th Parallel. They made a serious effort to move into the province in strength last year and are known to thirst for a propaganda victory there.

Most of the fighting in Quang Tri has been done by North Vietnamese regulars, and the Viet Cong guerrilla units there are laced with North Vietnamese replacements.

How many Reds were involved in the attacks early today was not immediately known. The attacks centered on the provincial capital which is near the coast and about a dozen miles north of Hue. There are few U.S. Marine units in the immediate area.

The U.S. command in Saigon reported all-weather jets from the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise carried the war deep into North Vietnam Wednesday with a raid on the country's most modern power plant only 20 miles from Hanoi.

Pryor Against Postage Hike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., came out against President Johnson's proposal Wednesday to raise first-class postage to six cents.

Pryor said that during visits to his home district his constituents "justifiably expressed the opinion" that any increases should go to third-class mail users, and not first-class mail users.

AM&N to Host Judging Contest

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) - The Southeast Arkansas Future Farmers of America judging contests will be held at Arkansas A&M College here Friday with about 1,200 students from 58 southeast Arkansas high schools expected to compete.

Winners will advance to the state contest at Jonesboro in June and then to the national finals at Kansas City in October.

Remember the housewives' rebellion against supermarkets? One chain did what the women suggested and now a grocery war has begun in Florida.

Although there apparently was no doubt that Blaylock would become commissioner, it was not officially learned until Wednesday.

The 49-year-old retired Air Force officer was appointed as assistant to Commissioner A.J. Moss in February, who has resigned to accept a federal job.

Blaylock, a Little Rock native who presently operates a livestock farm at Nimrod in Perry County, said he expected to assume duties Monday.

He said the governor did not tell him he eventually would become commissioner when he was named Moss' assistant, but he added that "everything moved pretty fast" after Moss announced his resignation.

Blaylock said he planned no sweeping changes at least until "I feel I'm better informed than I am at the present time."

"I do anticipate some reorganization," he said, "but I wouldn't want to say what that would be at this time."

Blaylock, who was principal of Perry County schools for three years, said he didn't anticipate having a rough time staying within the department's budget. His remarks were in reference to Moss' comments Tuesday that his successor would have a tough time doing so.

Manchester's Book Hated in Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — William Manchester's book "The Death of a President" has received generally enthusiastic reviews from book critics. But they hated it in Texas.

Arthur Darack, book critic of the Cincinnati Enquirer, said Manchester wrote in "a telegraphic, vivid, nonliterary style" and that his work is "hard to read and hard to put down."

William Tucker of the Miami News described it as a "solid textbook and handbook of the assassination" of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

"William Manchester's vast, moving story strikes like a meteor shower of facts and penetrating detail about one of the momentous events of history," Tucker said.

Stanton Peckham of the Denver Post commented that "some will think it reveals too much. It will hurt feelings. But for any one who wants to know what really happened in America that tragic weekend and how people took it — especially those closest to that weekend — there can be no more informative or authoritative account."

A dissenting opinion came from Lon Tinkle of the Dallas News, who had this to say:

"It is easy to fault William Manchester's vivid and artistically structured narrative of the Kennedy assassination — alas, too easy, for here is a golden opportunity thrown out the window."

"No other writer now will benefit from the memories of the person closest to the tragedy; Jacqueline Kennedy, and even she has violently faulted the book."

"The multiple errors in fact and in interpretation are already being documented by historians. What is most interesting is why the book — for which many good things can be said — went wrong."

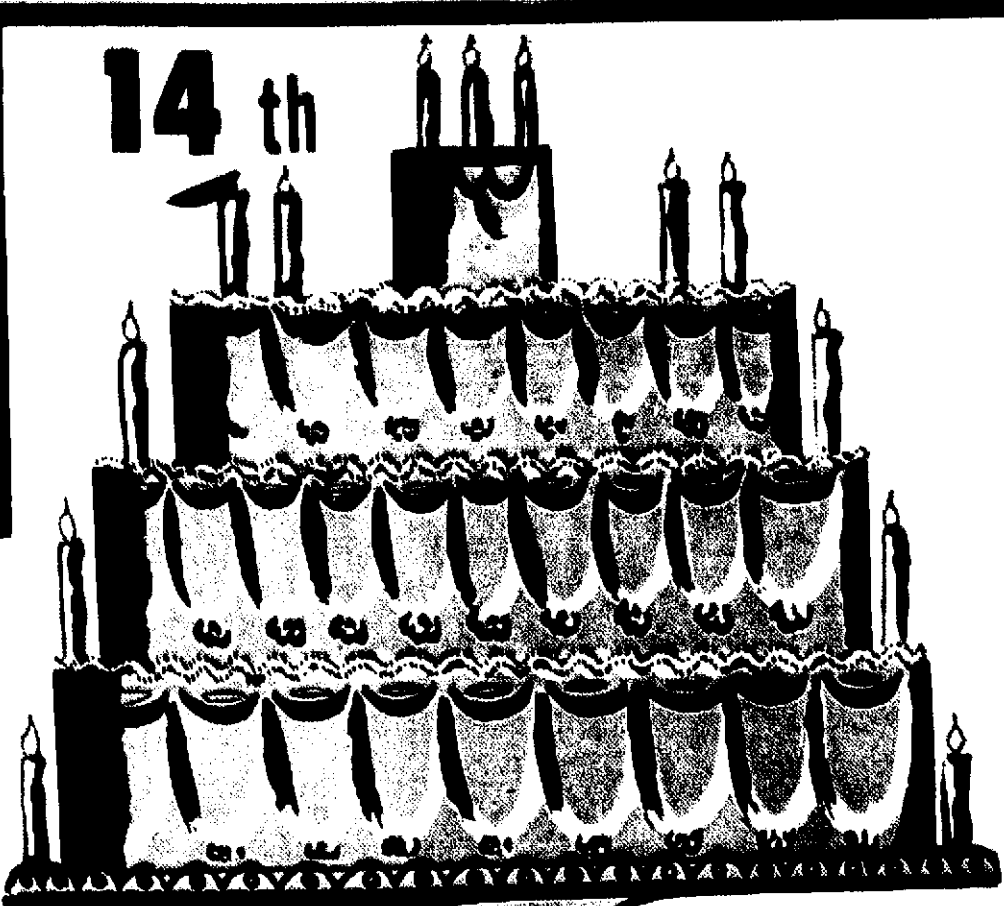

Manchester, a talented artist obviously, worked under white-hot pressure and relied too much on his uncanny sense of intuition. This gift he substituted for what the assignment required: the historian's detachment, objectivity and a devotion to perspective. He makes a drama, not a historical record."

A similar view was taken by Robert M. Jackson, editor of the Corpus Christi (Tex.) Caller.

"Manchester was the public recipient of exclusive rights," Jackson wrote. "He was, in effect, given a franchise."

"Despite the gruesome fascination of some parts of the book one is inclined to surmise that 'The Death of a President' is going to be read about more than it is going to be read."

Jackson declared that the book "isn't worth $10" and advised would-be readers to wait. "Sponsor or later your neighbor who belongs to the book club will lend it to you. Or you can always wait for the paperback edition."

HEAD START child of the year is bright-eyed Frank "Panchito" Mansera, subject of a color documentary film by the Office of Economic Opportunity. Two years ago he was five years old, with the mental and physical growth of a two-year-old due to a glandular condition. Through the head start program he received medical treatment and turned into a growing, active kindergartner. He is shown here during a recent trip to Washington, D.C., for a premiere of the 24-minute film about his case.

INSTANT STAGE for young students is part of a new concept in schoolroom furniture. Desks, storage bins, tables, dividers and display boards are all collapsible, and the room can be cleared quickly for special activities. So simple is the assembling of the furniture, marketed by Macalaster Scientific Corp., that the students themselves can put their own desks together.

Belafonte Moves Mountains

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Harry Belafonte went to ABC-TV and took them a mountain. The mountain didn't become a molehill and that represents progress.

Belafonte is the executive producer of A Time for Laughter, an ABC Stage '67 show telecast on April 6. It's a look at Negro humor from the days of Jim Crow to the present, and it's biting, satirical and very funny.

"I'm damn excited about the show, and I'm thankful to ABC. It's going to be controversial, but not violently," Harry said, admitting that some of the political jabs originally in the script had been toned down. "I went in with Everest and I came out with Kilimanjaro. If I had gone in with Kilimanjaro, I would have come out with Bunker Hill."

This is the second Negro special Belafonte has produced, and it is a natural follow-up to last year's The Strollin' '20s, a musical look at life in a ghetto.

"The point of that show was to say a ghetto stinks and is psychologically crippling. But that ghetto was also the same one in which I learned love and laughter and humor. Now it's time to leave the pain behind and focus on those who have come out."

Belafonte says that ghetto influences on Negroes formed character traits and cultural contributions which have also profoundly influenced the lives of whites. "I don't know what would have happened to jazz if it hadn't come from ghettos. And many expressions that originated in ghettos are a part of the American language."

Sidney Poitier, who nar-

rates the show, refers to Negro humor as a "heady wine, rarely tasted by the outside world."

"The idea was to comment on ourselves," Harry said. "We didn't pull any punches. As a Negro artist, it is my responsibility to project the Negro so he can see himself and so the white community can also see him and what he laughs at."

Negro humor began in the

Harry Belafonte

1800s when a white entertainer gave a young stable boy named Jim Crow a dollar to teach him his act. That was the beginning of black-faced entertainers. "It eventually got to the point where Negro entertainers of the minstrel era had to copy the style of the whites copying them," Harry said.

All this behind-the-scenes production activity might alarm fans of handsome Harry and his superb ability as an entertainer. But he has no intention of retiring to a backstage life. He appears on A Time for Laughter in a comic skit, and he sings "Dogs." He has recently signed a new contract with RCA Victor Records to make three albums a year for the next 10 years. He is going on a 12-week concert tour of colleges. And he says he plans to do more and more television.

"I have been offered roles in several series—Bonanza was one I can think of—but seven days of work and $7,500 bucks is not my idea of what I want to do."

"I am primarily interested in specials. I admire the courage of others who take a long-term series, but for me it would be ruinous. In a special, you have the opportunity to be relatively imaginative and the result deserves the title 'Special.'"

"On a regular basis, I would agree to a series if my involvement was the Bob Hope type where you introduce shows weekly and perform occasionally."

A Chicken Salad with Spring Gaiety

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the gentle fragrance of spring in the air, the appetite is eager for a touch of gastronomic gaiety—something different, a change from the familiar routines.

Have you ever tried a dinner of soup and a substantial salad? You'll be surprised what a refreshing change of pace it is. Sometimes we serve this menu on trays in the living room when a few friends come to dinner. An informal, easy and very pleasant casual dinner party. A good bread (buttered) and an easy-to-handle dessert and coffee complete this off-the-beaten-trail way of entertaining.

FRESH VEGETABLES AND CHICKEN SALAD
1 head Romaine lettuce
2 cups chilled potato balls or diced potatoes
2 cups chilled cooked fresh green peas
2 cups chilled, cooked fresh snap beans
1/2 cup French dressing

CHICKEN SALAD—a touch of spring.

2 1/2 cups chilled, diced, cooked chicken
1/2 cucumber, sliced
1 bunch fresh radishes
3 stalks fresh celery, cut into sticks
1 large tomato
Cauliflowerettes
Mayonnaise
Tear Romaine into bite-sized pieces and place in salad bowl. Marinate cooked vegetables in French dressing and arrange in clusters with cold diced chicken, sliced cucumbers, radishes and celery over salad greens. Cut tomato into sixths to form a flower and place in center of salad. Place cauliflowerettes between wedges and in middle of tomato. Serve in a help-yourself fashion, letting each person choose the vegetables of his choice. Serve with mayonnaise or additional French dressing. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

LBJ Tightens Up Public Manner

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — After almost three and one-half years in his job President Johnson has undergone some changes, the most noticeable a tightening up in his public manner. But there have always been two Johnsons, one public, one private.

Publicly he was the extremely bouncy type at first, seeming to overdo everything in speeches, gestures, activity, television appearances, news conferences. There were a couple of plausible reasons.

If he seemed unsure of himself in public relations, he was also unexpectedly new in the job. And his first full White House year, 1964, was also a presidential election year, enough to keep anyone steamed up.

But privately from the beginning, perhaps partly from his own long political experience and perhaps partly from watching President Dwight D. Eisenhower, a master at staying popular, Johnson followed a careful policy.

He avoided public feuds, which have a sour effect on the public mind, and he refrained from the kind of harsh statements that drive people into the opponents' camp, whoever the opponents happen to be at any given time.

President Harry S. Truman, forever banging heads with his critics, provided the opposite example.

For instance: Johnson could have considered some of the statements by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., enough provocation to get rough, particularly since Kennedy was mentioned as his rival for the 1968 presidential nomination.

But Johnson kept his temper and it paid off. Just last week Kennedy again publicly pledged to support the renomination of Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey next year.

Even though 1964 was an election year, there seemed to be something irrefragable about the public Johnson then. He held 32 news conferences that year. He dropped to 10 in 1965, although he raised to 18 in 1966, another election year. So far in 1967 he has had six.

But his way of having them has changed. President John F. Kennedy's news conferences were usually fully arranged and your favorite living doll. Whether she belongs to you or the lady down the block. In fact the doll was the world's second toy; the rattle-box, a noisy mixture of rattles and clappers came first. But it wouldn't surprise me if dolls were invented by someone's mother — one who wanted a little peace and quiet.

Actually, the very first dolls were for adults. They were idols and statuettes.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

THE A FRAME is about a three to one preference over other types of summer cottages. This is partly the result of its dramatic appearance and partly because its large roof makes it nearly maintenance free. The high roof allows space for a second level, providing additional sleeping space and, in HA493M, a large balcony. This design also is designed for a full basement and full insulation, which could easily be omitted. There are 848 square feet on the first floor and 491 square feet on the second floor. Architect is Rudolph A. Matern, 89 E. Jericho Turnpike, Mineola, N.Y. 11501.

Today, I'm showing a new version of the old favorite. This rag doll has a new complexion. It's crocheted—in big, easy stitches. The doll is a Scottish lassie, all of 19 inches high, complete with crocheted tam and tiny plaid skirt. It's stuffed with inexpensive cotton batting and crocheted in colorful Red Heart yarn (by Coats and Clark).

Give this lovable lassie a pair of big blue eyes, a smiling mouth, (easily made of felt), and watch for the smile on your own little girl's face.

While you're about it, you can make a textured treat for your living doll, too. The easy-to-knit sweater has the classic pullover styling of a grown-up design, with a smocked-look detailing, especially for little girls.

Directions for both the crocheted Scottish lassie doll and the real-girl sweater, sizes 8 to 14, are available in Leaflet S 112 for 50 cents from Stitchin' Time, c/o your local paper, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y.

CHILD'S PLAY with needles—A Scottish doll, crocheted in big easy stitches, makes a cuddly, new toy for your favorite lassie. The living doll wears a classic pullover style, easy to knit with little-girl smocking.

televised. They did him a lot of public good because he handled the newsmen so well.

Johnson is not so adroit with the press as Kennedy. More and more he called quickie, untelevised news conferences. None of this might mean much except that during the 3 1/2 years Johnson's public manner changed.

He has come to play his news conference straight-faced with a minimum of gestures, all of which indicates he sought good coaching and listened to it. He needed to.

He saw his popularity zoom down — not only because of the Vietnamese war — and he was criticized for too much hamming. The recent Johnson is a far more dignified and restrained man.

This is pretty true of his entire public operation now. The flamboyance is gone. He is as active as ever but less talkative and stays more out of the public eye. A definite change occurred in the last four months of 1966.

He did little campaigning for the Democrats in the congressional elections, went off for 17 days to a conference in Manila, returned in time to campaign but didn't, underwent minor surgery, and then retired to his Texas ranch where little was heard of him until he came back suddenly into full public view with a televised news conference Dec. 31. He was a changed man, publicly.

Privately, ever since 1965, when he began to step up the Vietnamese war, he has endured scorn and criticism in comparative quiet, letting his critics do most of the talking although he defended his position, but mostly in bits and pieces.

Then, suddenly it was the North Vietnamese, not Johnson, who revealed his repeated attempts to stimulate them into talking peace. He had kept quiet about all this while the critics were on his back.

That's how the private Johnson operates. It's the public Johnson he has had trouble getting used to.
